Jim Richter is a nationally recognized mandolin instructor who is an expert in blues mandolin with a steeped background in traditional Monroe-style bluegrass mandolin. Using principles of adult learning theory, Jim has conducted his well-regarded Richter Mandolin Camp since 2011 in Indiana, and has taught at Blues Week, Mandolin Camp North, Monroe Mandolin Camp, and other mandolin camps.

This workshop will focus on how to get the most out of your playing, regardless of genre or playing situation.

Areas of focus:

- Economy of motion
- Chord theory basics
- Chord shape soloing
- Doubles stops
- Pentatonic scales
- L/R hand technique
- Basics of blues playing
- Basics of Monroe-style
- Soloing/Improvisation
